It's the little things we do that make a big difference

Fulfilling lives

You want to work in the care sector because you're a born carer. You want to make a difference to people's lives. When you join Care UK, you become part of a culture where residents' well-being is at the heart of everything we do. You'll be given the time and freedom to care, to build relationships with the people we care for and to find ways to make their lives more fulfilling.

Fulfilling careers

At Care UK, our homes have a real family feel. We work together, supporting each other in an open, honest way. We give you all the support, training and development you need to fulfil your ambition.

Henry and Joyce

Experienced carer Henry knows that memories matter. So when he saw how much Joyce liked keepsakes from days gone by, he got hold of old furniture and nick-nacks to create a home from home just for her.

Time to care – and progress in your career

As an experienced carer, you know how important it is to spend time with your residents – getting to know them and helping them lead more fulfilled lives. That's why we give you the time you need to be a great carer. We also invest time in your future. Our focus on training helps you develop as a person and opens up exciting career paths.

Gain further qualifications

If you're a carer who wants to gain recognised qualifications, we'll support you. You can gain Diplomas in Health & Social Care or a Diploma in Health (Levels 2–5) through our approved apprenticeship scheme. We've invested heavily in the scheme and currently have over 700 apprentices. If you simply want a career as a carer without studying for new qualifications, that's OK too. We'll make sure it's fulfilling and rewarding for you.

We're looking for carers at all levels

When you join Care UK as a carer, you'll become part of a friendly, close-knit team committed to the well-being of residents. You get lots of support from day one, including a role-specific induction to prepare you for the job.

Your future is important to us, so we provide innovative learning and development programmes tailored to your goals. And we offer you a clear career path, helping you gain qualifications (if you want to) and reach your potential as a carer.

Supportive culture

You'll join a highly professional care team made up of carers, nurses and support staff. We offer a competitive package of pay and benefits. We also recognise the value of a healthy work-life balance – so we always try to be flexible, helping you fit your working life around your home life.

We think it's important to recognise good performance and loyalty. We have a recognition programme that rewards people who live our values every day. This is recognised through an employee of the month and quarter award.

Carer's career path at Care UK

You might be new to caring or an experienced carer. You may currently be employed as a carer or perhaps you have cared for someone close to you and now want to build a career doing what you do naturally. We'll support you with training and development at every step. You could even go on to train as a nurse or go into care management.
